After general meeting of individuals and organization helping to put on the 1951 Hempstead County Watermelon Festival, which will be held at the Fair park in Hope on Wednesday, July 25th, the following statement of policy was formulated.

The primary purpose of the continuation of the Watermelon Festival, as revived by the Southwest Arkansas progressive association at Patmos in 1930, is to advertise Hempstead County watermelons, thereby helping the Hempstead County farmers and others in this trade area that raise watermelons of the same caliber.

All persons participating in the Festival are donating their services. Civic minded merchants and bankers signed notes at the local banks to guarantee an y deficit in expenses. It is hoped that there will be no deficit.

All places of business are asked to close promptly at 10:30 a. m. and to urge all of their employees to attend the Festival.

Farming is still Hempstead County's principal occupation and watermelons are certainly one of the county's best known products. The committee is very anxious that everybody exert themselves to the fullest in promoting, advertising and attending this year's Festival.

It is to be emphasized that not only the merchants and organizations in Hope but organizations throughout the county, including the Home Demonstration Clubs and the County Farm Bureau, have pledged their whole hearted support and are helping plan and work to make the Festival a success.

Floods Leave 5 Dead in Kansas

Topeka, Kas., July 12 — (AP) — High water swelled over Kansas today in the state's most disastrous flood, leaving at least five persons dead and thousands homeless.

Five, and possibly eight persons, were missing.

Swollen rivers surged far beyond their banks into scores of communities.

The waters swept many areas in eastern and central Kansas that have been flooded and reflooded during the last two months of heavy rains.

The army engineers office at Kansas City estimated damages at $85,000,000 from the present and recent floods along the Kansas and its tributaries.

Trains were stranded. Motorists were marooned. The national guard, the air force, marines, coast guard and Red Cross all joined volunteers in aiding evacuees and patrolling dikes.

Boats were flown to some flooded areas and dropped by parachute.

The majority of 10,000 residents of North Topeka, across the river from this state capital, evacuated the area.

Breaker dikes sent flood waters of the Kansas river pouring into North Topeka early today. Water stood knee-high in the business district and deeper in some areas close to the river.

The river — the state's greatest — is expected to reach its highest level in history of 33 feet at Topeka to night. North Topeka merchants sandbagged stores and carried stocks to second floors before flooding.

Flooding already has inundated large sections of many towns, Ottawa, Council Grove, Manhattan, Marion, Strong City and Florence are among the hardest hit.

This was the picture in just one small town—Marion: Flooded over 15 blocks of Main street. The town's water supply was cut off. Windows in virtually every building in the business district were shattered.

Cows and pigs floated down the streets, occasionally bumping against boats, merchandise and tree limbs.

The Marion County Sheriff Jim Kline said the damage was "tremendous," then added: "Figure the number of stores and houses in a town of 2,300 and figure them all wiped out, and you've got it."

In addition to damages suffered by towns, farmers have lost millions of dollars in crops and the use of rich bottomland for the remainder of the growing season. The wet weather has bogged down the wheat harvest.

Deaths occurred at Ellsworth, Emporia and Manhattan. A car plunged into a flooded creek at Ellsworth, drowning three San Diego, Calif., tourists. They were Gerald V. Whipple, Mrs. F. W. Veckeleer and her daughter, Mae.

Still Faces Assault With Intent to Kill Charge

A charge of assault with intent to kill has been filed against Edgar Red Still who was arrested by police for cutting Garland Grant with a hand sickle late on Monday afternoon.

The incident followed an argument over repair on a wagon at a blacksmith's shop on East 4th Street. The deep wound inflicted on the back of Grant's neck required 24 stitches to close.

Still's bond was fixed at $500, pending a preliminary hearing.

Tax-Writers to Decide on Profits Tax

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — The tax-writing senate finance committee probably will decide soon whether to knock out a $732,000,000 excess profits tax hike voted by the house.

The excess profits levy lost amounts to more than one-tenth of the additional revenue in the $7,200,000,000 house bill, but among members of the senate group there is known to be strong support for its elimination.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the committee told a reporter today he will try to get the full membership together as soon as possible to decide whether to make a detailed study of excess profits.

Meanwhile, the group continues its open hearings on the bill today 9 a. m. EST.

He made clear he felt a committee decision not to go into excess profits taxes would mean the senators would eliminate a provision in the house bill lowering to 10 per cent the base period net income used in figuring the excess profits tax.

This change accounts for much of the increased revenue the house and treasury expect to get from the excess profits levy.

The base period used in computing the excess profits tax is the three best out of the four years 1944 through 1949.

Under the law passed last year all income over 85 per cent of earnings in the base period was made taxable at the 77 per cent excess profits rate. The new house bill cuts the 85 per cent down to 75 and also hikes the rate to 82 per cent.

Many business organizations have urged the senators to strike out the house provision. They argue it is nonsense to designate as abnormally large profits those earnings which are above 75 per cent of the base period. Some witnesses have contended the figure should be 100 per cent.

Labor spokesmen have challenged this point of view. They say profits were swollen in the years after World War Two and that earnings in the base period were not normal.

Tied in with the excess profits question is the length of the senate hearing on the bill. George said more than 40 witnesses have asked to be heard on the excess profits tax hike voted by the house and many more on alleged inequities growing out of the 1950 law.

Even to hear the 40 witnesses would add two weeks to the present schedule of hearings, the committee chairman said. The treasury is urging congress to pass the bill as soon as possible so that the available for most of the current fiscal year which began July 1.

Work Started on New Manse by Presbyterians

Construction is underway on the new Presbyterian Manse on the 700 block of South Main, it was learned today. The new house is alongside the site on which the new Presbyterian Church will be erected.

The new Manse will probably cost about $20,000, a church spokesman said. The brick structure will take several months to complete.

Erection of a new church is several years away.

7 Feared Dead in Explosion in GM Factory

Indianapolis, July 12 — (AP) — Seven men are believed to have died in an explosion today in the General Motors Corp. military jet engine plant just west of Indianapolis.

Maj. Harold E. Wilber, air force public information officer, said eight men were working in the small concrete block building and survived the blast, although he suffered severe burns.

Maj. Wilber made the death estimate after an inspection of the tangled debris and a check of the office records.

Earlier, he had said there were six known dead.

Indianapolis, July 12 — (AP) — At least six men were killed and another was injured seriously in an explosion and fire today in the huge General Motors Allison plant where jet engines are being made for the air force.

Maj. Harold E. Wilber, air force public information officer, said: "There are six known dead. Possibly two more were killed."

Maj. Wilber made the announcement after an inspection of the tangled debris.

Two mangled bodies were brought out about three hours after the blast.

Maj. Wilber said it may take hours to recover some of the other bodies, buried beneath tons of concrete.

The explosion was in a jet engine testing cell for the General Motors Allison division.

The division is working on a big contract from the air force for engines for thunder jets.

The explosion occurred about 4 a. m. (EST) and was heard for several miles.

The plant is being operated under army control. Plant employees said they were instructed to give out no information about the explosion.

A detachment of military police sprays over several acres five miles west of Indianapolis near the Indianapolis Motor speedway.

Carl Gartner 33, an employee, was taken to the Indianapolis Methodist hospital and treated for severe burns.

The explosion tore the roof from the concrete testing cell. Huge blocks of concrete were hurled several hundred feet and scattered over a nearby parking lot used by plant employees.

The testing cell is a one-story building measuring about 75 by 100 feet.

Completed jet engines are set up in the cell and given exhaustive tests before shipment.

William Burge, an employee working in another section of the plant, said the force of the explosion knocked him from a stool.

"I thought the place was being bombed and I jumped out of a window," Burge said.

Moscow was built by Jurie, or George I, Duke of Kiev (1149 A. D.). Towers on San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge are each 746 feet tall.

Marriage and Divorce Seems to Be the Popular Habit of the Women in This Age

New York, July 12 — (AP) — Are women habit-forming? The evidence is that—in this world—they are to the average man. One way or another, one habit leads to another.

The two most popular habits between men and women in this age are marriage and divorce. And, being extraordinary men, they are the problem of our society today.

Well, so have dogs, people, picnics, marriages, and the number of cases of poison ivy. If you will honestly look over your own lives, or those of your parents, you will easily see why. There have been more opportunities to have picnics. Everything else follows.

Marriage is the formative period between adolescence and senility. It is the poor man's device for sharing his loneliness and responsibility and blame for being so pitiful.

The best tribute to marriage is that those who divorce turn again to marriage. Certainly the men I know do. If they get rid of a woman they can't get along with, they immediately turn to the problem.

Hope Youths Leave Saturday for New Mexico Ranch

Three Hope youths will go over to Texarkana tonight to meet with 7 other district scouts and form plans for a trip to the famous Philmont Ranch at Philmont, N. M. They are Max Mannose, Donald McQueen and Jerry O'Neal. The boys will leave Saturday morning for the two-weeks trip and return on July 28. Ten Scouts in the district will make the trip.

AFL Union in Favor of More Taxes

Washington, July 11 — (AP) — The American Federation of Labor got behind the Truman administration's request for $10,000,000,000 of new taxes today, and proposed that $4,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 be raised from increases in individual income taxes to hit particularly at those with larger incomes.

The proposal was advanced by Arthur Elder, A. F. L. tax consultant, in testimony to the tax-writing senate finance committee.

His plan would hike individual income levies by more than double the $2,850,000,000 increase in a house-passed $7,200,000,000 revenue-raising bill. The senators are holding hearings on the house bill.

The plan of the big labor organization ran directly counter to suggestions of business groups. These have urged that the house bill be changed so that personal income tax increases would hit harder at lower income levels.

The committee for economic development, and organization of businessmen, took this view in testimony yesterday. It said more taxes should be siphoned out of the lower income groups as an anti-inflationary measure.

Elder said the $10,000,000,000 increase urged by President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder is essential to balance the budget in the defense mobilization period.

The AFL spokesman said two-thirds of this should come from increased personal income taxes and most of the rest from corporate tax posts. He would raise corporate levies by about $3,200,000,000 a year or $350,000,000 more than in the house bill.

Mortar Shell Kills Two at Pendleton

Camp Pendleton, Calif., July 12 — (AP) — A faulty mortar shell, exploded prematurely, killed two marine trainees and injured 17 yesterday.

Marine corps officers said all normal precautions had been taken before the 16 mm. shell was fired in mortar practice. Maj. K. A. Angell said the shell was faulty.

Some 50 trainees were on the gunnery range of this vast training base when the round exploded. It sprayed fragments for a 30-yard radius.

A board of inquiry is investigating.

Killed were Pfc Haskel Graves Jr., 19, of Oklahoma City, and Pfc. Wallace Duwayne Wherley, 20, of Minot, N. D.

Reds Report Break in Peace Talks, Suspension May Be Only Temporary

Wholesale Prices Still Declining

Wholesale food prices continued their gentle, months-long decline this week. But in the retail store, again as in the past several weeks, there were few if any general reductions except on seasonally abundant fresh fruits and vegetables.

Changes in red meat prices were almost entirely confined to temporary advertised specials designed to attract customers, and these followed no general pattern.

One big competitive chain slashed prime rib roasts one to three cents a pound for the coming week-end. Another chain announced an 18-cent a pound price cut on sirloin steak in one city, but simultaneously boosted sirloin 18 cents in a large marketing area less than 150 miles away.

A New York supermarket chain which advertised frying chicken about seven cents a pound cheaper last week-end reported "practically a sell-out" and said it had a price back up seven or nine cents this week to pay for replacement stock.

Price movements in pork, lamb, eggs, butter were small and irregular, and reflected only local conditions.

In the produce departments, several vegetables were reported in the rock-bottom price class a month ago. These were headed by cabbage, fresh corn, snap beans and squash.

Plentiful new arrivals of topped carrots, celery, peppers, potatoes and onions thinned lower prices for those items by the week-end. Higher prices were expected for lettuce, mushrooms and strawberries.

The first permanent melons arrived in distant markets this week from California. Raspberries were expected to decline in price by next week in most places. Demand for peaches and cantaloupes was reported excellent and produce men said good cherries were about as cheap in most big cities as they'll get this season.

The agriculture department stressed potatoes, lemons and limes as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

The bureau of labor statistics said its special food index showed retail food prices in mid-June were three-tenths of one per cent lower than in mid-May, but 12 per cent above a year earlier. During the first two weeks of June there was no overall change, since increases for fish and eggs were offset by declines for poultry, fruit and vegetables, fat and oils.

Wholesale food prices this week were at the lowest general level of the year to date, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index. At $92 it compared with $7.00 last week and $28 a year ago. The year's high so far was $71 on Feb. 20. The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Indicted Red Leaders Are Back in Jail

New York, July 12 — (AP) — Fifteen indicted Communist leaders were back in jail today after a federal judge cancelled their $17,500 bail.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan disqualified the Civil Rights Congress, which had posted $171,000 of the bail from further activity as bonds man in a case in his court.

Guy Grigg Buys Allison Company

On July 6, the Hempstead Probate Court on sealed bids approved the sale by the administratrix of the Roy Allison Flooring Company to Guy Grigg, well known Hope Contractor.

Mr. Grigg took charge of the business on July 6, and has retained V. L. Holly in his employment. Mr. Holly was with Roy Allison for 9 years.

The business, Mr. Grigg announced, would be continued at the present location, but he planned immediately to expand and improve it in order to better serve the public.

Tom McLarty Home on Main Is Sold

The new Tom McLarty home near the high school on South Main Street has been sold, Mr. McLarty said today. He insisted that the name of the new owner be withheld for a few days. The home is the old Dr. Weaver place that was completely remodeled and modernized by Mr. and Mrs. McLarty last year.

Proposed Peace Plan for Japan Is Unveiled

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — The United States and Britain as co-sponsors formally unveiled today a "peace of reconciliation" with Japan they expect to be signed by some 50 nations.

Ambassador John Foster Dulles, in charge of negotiations for the U. S., said it was still a "peace of reconciliation" with Japan. But he gave notice, the other nations otherwise will make peace without Moscow.

The treaty, which Dulles termed "unique" in history, is due to be signed at San Francisco the week of Sept. 3. It strips Japan of its pre-war world two overseas holdings, but permits the Japanese to remain and in other major respects restores the former defeated empire to the status of a sovereign equal in the free world.

The signing is to be followed by a U. S.-Japanese pact permitting the U. S. to retain troops and military bases in and near Japan, pending the future creation of a system of collective security for the Pacific. A three-way security pact among the U. S., Australia, and New Zealand and a separate commercial treaty between this country and Japan are parts of the general settlement.

The revised draft is the product of more than a year's negotiation with the other principal Pacific Allies in which Dulles took the lead as the U. S. representative. He predicted it will be generally acceptable to the 50-odd nations at war with Japan.

One will be 100 percent satisfied but almost everyone should be about 95 percent satisfied," he said in a statement.

Dulles stated the unique direct negotiations by which the terms were worked out without a general peace conference, the restoration of a free Japan without any attempt to impose permanent restrictions, and the principle of collective security under the United Nations. By this arrangement, he said, "there will be a combination of U. S. and future Japanese forces, and perhaps other, so that it would be materially impossible for Japan to wage a war of revenge."

Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, termed the "widespread agreement" terms "striking evidence of unity among the U. S., Britain and France."

When the treaty comes into force, perhaps only next year, American occupation payments to Japan of $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 a year will cease. Dulles told reporters it depends largely on Korean developments whether the U. S. then will be called upon to aid Japan to the list of nations receiving American aid Japan now is prospering from war orders from the Korean fighting.

Detached treaty terms already have been reported. And a copy of the revised text was made available to the Associated Press earlier this week.

The state department said the draft has been distributed to "nations principally concerned" and a final revision will be made about July 20 on the basis of their comments.

But Dulles said there is no intention of repeating conditions of major issues and that no major changes will be made. The final stage before the signing is a signing ceremony in Washington among the 50-odd nations at war with Japan.

After keeping the text secret for months, the state department now is making the treaty available to the public. It said it should include a declaration of Japan's renunciation of war.

Reed Found Guilty on Two Counts and Fined $275

Wallace Reed, of Yancy, north Hempstead, was fined on two counts in municipal court this morning and another charge was dismissed.

Reed was involved in an accident two days ago near Fulton River bridge in which Robert R. Rupert of St. Louis, motorcycle rider, was injured. The truck driver failed to stop and lend aid.

This morning Judge W. K. Lemley found him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and fined him $250; found guilty of driving without proper license, fined $25 and a reckless driving charge was dismissed.

Bond was fixed at $500 and notice of appeal was given. W. S. Atkins represented Reed and the prosecution was handled by Deputy Royce Weisenberger assisted by C. V. Nunn, Jr.

Travelers Defeat the All-Stars

By CARL BELL
Little Rock, July 12 — (AP) — The Little Rock Travelers hold the Southern association lead and victory in the league's 13th annual all-star game for the same reason — they're shatters who take advantage of more chances than they rival.

The Hot Rocks' 4-3 conquest of the all-stars, an exciting epic that kept 9,072 fans screaming all the way, was a carbon copy of the way they've paced the Class AA circuit almost from opening day.

No powerhouse, Little Rock got its — just little old singles — at the right times to capitalize on breaks and breaks at the right time to cash in on hits.

The Travelers got their first run in the bottom inning, on two walks, a base-filling single and a fielder's choice. The runner who came home was Hal Simpson, who had coaxed the first five runs from righthander Howard Anderson of Atlanta.

They got their second tally in the sixth without a hit. H. C. Gray, who later drove in the winning run, walked. He made it home on an error, a fielder's choice and a run-time return loss from the catcher to the pitcher.

In only two innings were the all-stars able to read more than four runs to the fourth in which a pair of consecutive home runs accounted for all of their scoring.

Duke Dandridge, who has come through frequently on pinch hits for this season, did it again to drive in the tying run for the Travelers in the seventh. Verne Williamson ran for him and scored.

Never quite got the hang of how to play chess myself, but I'll say this — the game — it started one of the strongest friendships I know of between Dad Wilson in our town and a fellow in Sudbury, England.

The two of them have never met or seen each other — but for eight or nine years they've been playing chess by mail together. Dad pulled over the Englishman's latest letter, takes a couple of days to think it over, and then mails a chart of his next move.

Now Comes the Question of Whether Children in Britain Should Be Made to Dress Alike

By HAL BOYLE
New York, (AP) — Should children be made to dress alike? This question has been raised in a British column in a daily paper at the moment.

The grownups over there have been doing a lot of things after the war, sharing their wealth and wealth, watching the same government radio programs and eating the same number of eggs a week.

But there are signs of rebellion. The British army has come up with a new rule that means that by the cities of other Atlantic powers. And there was instant reaction against a proposal by Tony Blair, British minister of health, to make children wear a "standard uniform" in order to cut the cost of clothing.

Chief clerk against this idea was John Taylor, the aptly named editor of "Tailor and Cutter," a London trade journal.

"If all children are to wear the same uniform," he said, "then the fundamental advantage of a uniform, that other people are not eligible to wear it, will immediately vanish."

I don't think this argument holds water at all. It is typical of other old-fashioned British ideas — that parents have any choice in what their children will wear.

There in America the kids tell papa what they want, and mama goes out and buys it for them, and there's no nonsense about it.

It is now standard with both sexes from the ages of two to about 1. Up to about 8 they seem to gallop about in full regalia — gups, bandannas, chaps, tassels and sombreroes. After that they go around like cowboys at duty, wearing only a pair of faded blue jeans and a sloopy shirt with the tail sticking out.

More and more the girls after the age of 10 are cutting their hair short like the boys and how they tell each other apart is a mystery to me — and, of course, to me my business. What difference does it make anyway? Girls will be girls if they want to.

The problem of even identifying their offspring at all is a task growing more harassing to the parents of small offspring. Under a full moon but how can you tell one small cowboy from another? It takes a real knowledge of movie horse operas.

Three of the stars got two hits apiece. Both of Little Rock's were Duke Dandridge, Birmingham first sacker, and Dale Lynch, Birmingham second baseman, each one.

Little Rock's triumph was the eighth for the host team, against five for the all-stars and the first in two tries for the Travelers.

Today is an open date in the league schedule. All clubs return to action tomorrow night, with Chattanooga at Little Rock, Atlanta at New Orleans, Birmingham at Mobile and Nashville at Memphis.

National Loop Sees End to Terror Reign

HELD BY REDS—Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis, 37, of Marion, Ind., has been arrested in Prague by Czechoslovakian Communist government. He is charged with activities hostile to the state.

Detroit, July 11 — The National League inner circle today saw an end to the American league's reign of terror, and predicted a new cycle shift in the batting power to the senior circuit.

Gil Hodges, strapping Brooklyn first baseman and the National league's home run leader, said after yesterday's 8-3 triumph over the Americans:

"It is the National that has the home run hitters now, not the American. Yes, sir, times have changed."

Ralph Kiner, the National's home run king for the last five years, echoed this sentiment.

"I don't see that before the game when we lined up for the National Anthem, I looked over at the American bunch and thought: 'God, what a bunch of little guys compared to a few years ago. For the first time our boys looked like the big men.'"

Hodges and Kiner hit two of the National's four homers as they pounded five pitchers for a dozen hits and ran up the pitcher's run total ever made by a National league all-star team.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Elliott of the Boston Braves also smashed homers for the winners. Those of Hodges and Elliott came with aman on base. George Kell and Vic Wertz of Detroit hit solo fourbatters on the Americans.

"It's a brand new cycle," beamed Charlie Segar, National league publicist. "Watch us from now on. We're going to do the same thing in the World Series."

Previous World Series and pre-1920 all-star games bring back nothing but bitter memories to the Nationals.

Victimized for years by such dynamites as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Fox, Hank Greenberg, Joe DiMaggio and Charlie Keller, the Nationals had won only five of the 17 previous all-star tilts and had dropped 30 of 47 World Series. They haven't won a World Series since 1946. Last year they had to go 14 innings to win the all-star game 4-3.

The Nationals entered the game with the more robust batting averages and better pitching that befitted the 75 odds favor in the Americans but they outpitched and outfielded them.

The emphasis was strictly on the home run but little Riche Ashburn, footloose Philadelphia Phillies outfielder, brought the huge Briggs stadium crowd of 52,073 to its feet with a brilliant leap-fence in the sixth inning to rob Wertz of a nearhome. Ashburn caught the ball in front of the right centerfield screen 400 feet distant after a long run.

National league pitching wasn't bad, either. Except for an unsteady two-inning stint by Dobin Roberts, youthful hillies' righthander, and a couple of home run tosses by Sal Maglie of the New York Giants, the National's fourman hurling corps was excellent.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big righthander, was superb as he mowed the American leaguers down with two hits and no runs.

He was especially brilliant in the eighth when, after yielding a thumping threebase hit to Ted Williams, he retired the next three batters without allowing the Boston Red Sox slugger to budge off third. Newcombe, flashin' a burn in fast ball, fanned three.

Ewell Blackwell, the "Whip" from Cincinnati, held the losers a bay in the ninth. The victory was credited to Maglie, who worked the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Five hurlers went to the hill for the Americans. Except for Ned Garver of St. Louis, all were pasted freely.

Little Rock, July 12 — (AP) — Purchase of the Rice Belt Telephone company by Dr. J. W. Werner of Jonesboro has been approved by the Arkansas public service commission.

Werner bought the firm from Audrey and Ezra Peppenger. He has agreed to pay $7,000 cash and assume a $5,000 debt of the Fisher, Ottwell, Waldenburg and adjacent territory.

Communists try to overthrow it internally? Or would Germany become a new Korea, with the Communist-trained Germans of the East invading the Western part?

If we arm Germany before removing our troops, will it revert to nazism again and be a threat to its neighbors?

Anyway it may be some time before congress gets around to declaring the war. But if it does this strange paradox of war in our time will continue: We won't be at war with Germany but our troops will occupy it.

Gil Hodges, strapping Brooklyn first baseman and the National league's home run leader, said after yesterday's 8-3 triumph over the Americans:

"It is the National that has the home run hitters now, not the American. Yes, sir, times have changed."

Ralph Kiner, the National's home run king for the last five years, echoed this sentiment.

"I don't see that before the game when we lined up for the National Anthem, I looked over at the American bunch and thought: 'God, what a bunch of little guys compared to a few years ago. For the first time our boys looked like the big men.'"

Hodges and Kiner hit two of the National's four homers as they pounded five pitchers for a dozen hits and ran up the pitcher's run total ever made by a National league all-star team.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Elliott of the Boston Braves also smashed homers for the winners. Those of Hodges and Elliott came with aman on base. George Kell and Vic Wertz of Detroit hit solo fourbatters on the Americans.

"It's a brand new cycle," beamed Charlie Segar, National league publicist. "Watch us from now on. We're going to do the same thing in the World Series."

Previous World Series and pre-1920 all-star games bring back nothing but bitter memories to the Nationals.

Victimized for years by such dynamites as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Fox, Hank Greenberg, Joe DiMaggio and Charlie Keller, the Nationals had won only five of the 17 previous all-star tilts and had dropped 30 of 47 World Series. They haven't won a World Series since 1946. Last year they had to go 14 innings to win the all-star game 4-3.

The Nationals entered the game with the more robust batting averages and better pitching that befitted the 75 odds favor in the Americans but they outpitched and outfielded them.

The emphasis was strictly on the home run but little Riche Ashburn, footloose Philadelphia Phillies outfielder, brought the huge Briggs stadium crowd of 52,073 to its feet with a brilliant leap-fence in the sixth inning to rob Wertz of a nearhome. Ashburn caught the ball in front of the right centerfield screen 400 feet distant after a long run.

National league pitching wasn't bad, either. Except for an unsteady two-inning stint by Dobin Roberts, youthful hillies' righthander, and a couple of home run tosses by Sal Maglie of the New York Giants, the National's fourman hurling corps was excellent.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big righthander, was superb as he mowed the American leaguers down with two hits and no runs.

He was especially brilliant in the eighth when, after yielding a thumping threebase hit to Ted Williams, he retired the next three batters without allowing the Boston Red Sox slugger to budge off third. Newcombe, flashin' a burn in fast ball, fanned three.

Ewell Blackwell, the "Whip" from Cincinnati, held the losers a bay in the ninth. The victory was credited to Maglie, who worked the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Five hurlers went to the hill for the Americans. Except for Ned Garver of St. Louis, all were pasted freely.

Little Rock, July 12 — (AP) — Purchase of the Rice Belt Telephone company by Dr. J. W. Werner of Jonesboro has been approved by the Arkansas public service commission.

Werner bought the firm from Audrey and Ezra Peppenger. He has agreed to pay $7,000 cash and assume a $5,000 debt of the Fisher, Ottwell, Waldenburg and adjacent territory.

Communists try to overthrow it internally? Or would Germany become a new Korea, with the Communist-trained Germans of the East invading the Western part?

If we arm Germany before removing our troops, will it revert to nazism again and be a threat to its neighbors?

Anyway it may be some time before congress gets around to declaring the war. But if it does this strange paradox of war in our time will continue: We won't be at war with Germany but our troops will occupy it.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Friendship—Four Thousand Miles Apart

Never quite got the hang of how to play chess myself, but I'll say this — the game — it started one of the strongest friendships I know of between Dad Wilson in our town and a fellow in Sudbury, England.

The two of them have never met or seen each other — but for eight or nine years they've been playing chess by mail together. Dad pulled over the Englishman's latest letter, takes a couple of days to think it over, and then mails a chart of his next move.

And always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the fellow in England writes that he does the same. "Almost as if we were in the same room," says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often little friendly things — like a game of chess or a glass of beer — that can make for tolerance and understanding... between people of different nations, between folks here at home!

Harriman Sent to Iran for Talks on Oil

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — Harriman will leave for Iran in a day or so to see whether there is any possibility of salvaging an Anglo-Iranian settlement out of a situation which most officials here regard as little short of desperate.

The White House announced yesterday that President Truman's diplomatic trouble shooter would leave within 48 hours. Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had accepted Mr. Truman's offer to send Harriman out to discuss the dispute over oil nationalization.

Highly placed officials said Harriman will carry no instructions that would serve as a magic key to end the impasse and restore harmonious Iranian-British relations. Instead, they said Harriman's initial task will be to try to determine whether there is any possibility of working out an arrangement at this late date.

The most hopeful thing about his mission, it was said, is he has that he will be what diplomatic authorities will see new element in the situation. A fresh viewpoint, a different personality, a man with the nation's prestige and special relationship to the President may perhaps turn up an approach which no one else could have opened. That at least is official Washington's hope.

In the meantime it was learned from wholly reliable sources that Henry P. Grady, U. S. ambassador to Iran, is retiring and will be succeeded in six or eight weeks by Ambassador Loy Henderson, present envoy to India. Henderson is considered to be one of the nation's best qualified career diplomats for Middle Eastern service.

Flickering hope for a settlement of the Iranian oil dispute was dimmed further July 5 when Mossadegh turned down the findings of the International Court of Justice. The court proposed freezing the British oil company's bank accounts but continuing company operation of the big Iranian oil installations while new efforts were being made to negotiate on the question of ownership and legal control.

Iran contended the court had no jurisdiction over a dispute between a sovereign state and an industrial firm. Britain started the court action. She claimed to be a party to the dispute because the British government owns a majority interest in the company.

Although Mossadegh turned down the court's opinion, it was hoped here that some of the ideas put forth by the court might be employed in attempts to work out a settlement.

Actually however, in responsible quarters of the American government there is considerably more pessimism than hope. The dispute, which Russia has helped to aggravate when possible through the Communist Tudeh party inside Iran, is regarded here as having aroused bitterly nationalistic feelings in both Iran and Britain.

This poses a spiny problem for the U. S. in its middle-east role. If the row should reach the point where oil production stopped and economic ruin threatened to throw the Iranians into the lap of communism, the U. S. might have to decide whether to try to man and run the oil fields denied to Britain. It would be a decision of the utmost gravity since positive action would probably arouse in Britain anti-American feelings with precedent in modern times.

Peace Author Silent

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — John Foster Dulles, who engineered for this country the prospective peace treaty, was asked reporters whether he would serve as the first postwar American ambassador to Japan.

The Republican adviser to Secretary of State Acheson replied that was a hypothetical question asked whether the proposal had been made to him, he declined further comment.

The exchange took place yesterday at a news conference at which Dulles explained the treaty draft officially made public today.

DOROTHY DIX

Irritability

Dear Dorothy Dix, Can you help me with a problem that has been bothering me for over a year? I have been married five years and have two children. We were very happy until a year ago when my husband developed stomach trouble. Now he never comes into the house without finding fault with things. He doesn't like to be around people, and is positively rude to the neighbors when they drop in for a visit.

His own mother told him he should try to be a little more agreeable. My friends wonder how I put up with him. My husband doesn't like me to go out, and my friends think I should get out at least once a week. I love my husband very much and would like to have the warmth and understanding in our home that used to be there. Answer: To begin with, Ethel, for heaven's sake stop taking advice from your "friends." In a case like yours, neighborly advice, however well meant, can wreck a home like a bulldozer. If you want to take someone's advice, talk to your husband's doctor, and if he hasn't had medical treatment for his stomach condition, make every effort to see that he does get it, pronto.

Ones of any kind tends to make a patient irritable, but nothing works such havoc as a digestive disorder. The inability to enjoy food, constant nagging, pain that makes rest impossible, may ruin the disposition of a saint.

Make His Life Easier

It is up to you, as in every family emergency, it is up to the wife, to recognize your husband's difficulties and to do everything in your power to make life comfortable and bearable for him. This will be no easy task, I know, but pain is not easy for the sufferer, either. Your husband is depending upon you more than you realize. He probably isn't willing for you to go out because he finds comfort in your presence and doesn't want to be deprived of it. He may want a little spoiling—most sick people do—but that, again, is part of your job.

There is no doubt, of course, that many invalids overdo this demand for attention, but as you indicate your husband was a considerate and affectionate man before his illness, I doubt that he makes unreasonable demands now for the fun of it.

Send the neighbors home to their own housework; consult a doctor for complete understanding of your husband's case, and for exactly what treatment—medical and humane—he needs.

Dear Miss Dix: Don't you think a girl should get a chance to meet and talk with her boy friend's parents before they think of getting married? I have been going with David for two years and he met my folks when we began going together. He always visits with my family, and talks with them when he comes to call for me. Why doesn't he think of inviting me to meet his folks? Could it be that they don't like the idea of his going with me?

Answer: Most certainly a girl should have an opportunity to meet her boy friend's people before she is married. The best way to avoid in-law friction after marriage is for the young couple to meet and become as well acquainted as possible with each other's families. Perhaps David's folks don't approve of his going with you, in that case I think he should tell you so frankly. I can't understand why they aren't as anxious to meet you as you are to meet them. Most mothers are very much interested in the girls their sons know, and are happy to welcome and entertain the girls.

Awkward situations are naturally bound to arise if you reach the point of marriage without knowing your fiancée's family, and you'd better point this out to him. If himing doesn't work, ask him point blank why he doesn't want you and his family to meet. He should be proud of you both and happy to see you together.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We would like your advice on this problem. We like two boys and we think they like us. But they seem very bashful about coming to our houses or asking us to go out. Most of the girls here meet the boys on the street after a show or a ball game. We don't think that's very nice, but since some girls do it, the boys expect it of all of us. How can we get them to take us out in the proper way and call for us at our homes?

HILDA AND SUE Answer: Your're very wise youngsters!!! Set your standards high and you'll command respect from all about you. This habit established in your neighborhood is most pernicious and it's about time some one stopped it. Let it be known that you two will not go out with boys unless you are properly called for, and you'll be much more highly esteemed. As for the boys you'd like to meet, how about asking them to the house for an evening of dancing, games or other fun? It will help them over their bashfulness.

In leaflet D-5 "Jealousy," Dorothy Dix analyzes this destructive emotion. To obtain a copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

Oldtimers Were Really Tear Jerkers

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 9 — (AP) — Where are they, those magnetic and gold-enthrall men, the giants of senate oratory like Webster Calhoun and Clay who made the heart leap with their eloquence?

These three and there were others, have been dead a hundred years. No one in the senate now can match them for oratory. From all the senate speeches made in the past 20 years, you can remember a single phrase that sticks in the mind like this one, "Liberty and union, now and forever one and inseparable."

True, crowds still jam the senate galleries for debates on great issues. But the seldom memorable speeches are mostly matter-of-fact statements and almost never start a fire. Mainly the debates are arguments, bickerings, questions plying over points. And a filibuster which is also draws crowds, is not oratory. It is a physical endurance contest. The filibuster isn't trying to persuade but to obstruct. He talks to wear out the opposition. His speech is a hash of unrelated things, since he can skip without a trip from the Bible to a recipe for polliwog.

I asked a man — perhaps the greatest living authority on congress, although he doesn't want his name used here — why there are no more Websters who can tangle the American spine? "In the first place," he said, "he thinks oratory is getting to be a lost art like lengthy letter writing. Of these now in the senate, he'd put first — for oratory — Matthew Neely, West Virginia Democrat, because he admires Neely's migration."

Duncan Coffee Firm Gives Workers Bonus

The Duncan Coffee Company on July 2, released the following form letter to all wage and salaried employees:

"As I mentioned to those of you who attended the annual picnic recently, Brother and I have decided to award a ten per cent bonus at the end of the first six months of 1951 to all employees in your pay status. Your bonus check is enclosed herewith, computed according to the formula we have used in the past, namely:

For wage (hourly) employees 10 per cent of a 40 hour week's pay at your regular hourly rates, times the number of weeks worked from January 1, 1951 through June 30, 1951.

For salaried (monthly) employees 10 per cent of your regular monthly pay, times the number of months worked from January 1, 1951 through June 30, 1951.

"This formula places all on the same basis and does not penalize those who, through no fault of their own, have not been permitted to work a full 40 hour week.

"The decision to give this bonus has not been an easy one for, as many of you know, the first half of 1951 has not been what we would call a satisfactory period from the standpoint of profits. Our costs on every hand have increased over last year and competition has been extremely severe. We do not feel these are things over which you have any control, however, and we are anxious to express appreciation for the loyalty and cooperation which so many of you have demonstrated during the past months.

"In addition, we know the times are difficult times for every one. The troubled international situation, the increased cost of life's essentials, higher taxes and the general uncertainty of the times are all things which bring about in the best of us the need for moral and financial encouragement.

"Hence, our decision to give this bonus to employees even though our Officers and Directors are not receiving any bonus at this time. Perhaps profits may not entirely justify this bonus but we are glad to be in a position to maintain our

Scottsboro Man Held for Rape

Albany, N. Y., July 12 — (AP) — A Negro, who identified himself as one of the "Scottsboro boys," was held here today on a first degree rape charge, and Alabama authorities said they would list him as a parole violator.

The man, booked as James Wright, 30, was accused of raping a 14-year-old Negro girl in her home here. He pleaded innocent in police court yesterday, and was jailed pending an examination July 19.

Wright told police he was one of the nine Negroes involved in the notorious rape cases involving two white girls in Alabama two decades ago. He was paroled June 9, 1950, from a 99-year prison sentence. He was the last of the nine to be freed.

In Montgomery, Ala., Secretary J. J. Stephens of the Alabama parole board said last night that Wright would be declared a parole violator. He added, however, that Alabama would insist that Wright be tried on the rape charge in New York State.

Wright and eight others were charged with raping the white girls March 25, 1931, in a freight car near Scottsboro, Ala. Their convictions were carried to the U. S. supreme court several times.

Wright was sentenced to death in April, 1931. He won a new trial through the U. S. supreme court in 1937, and later was sentenced to 99 years in prison. He was 17 at the time of his arrest in Alabama.

Albany police said the 13-year-old girl had told her mother Tuesday night that she had been raped in her home July 3, and that her assailant had threatened to cut her throat if she informed her parents.

The girl and her foster-mother told police they were acquainted with Wright.

As Wright was led from police court, he told detectives: "Well, I've been through this before."

Wright's identity was confirmed by Dr. Joseph B. Robinson, an Albany physician, who said he was sponsoring Wright while the Negro was on parole. Dr. Robinson said the man's full name was James Andrew Wright, and that he was the "Andy Wright" of the Scottsboro case.

The doctor said he had sponsored Wright through the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and had found the Negro a job and a place to live.

Wright had been working in a knitting mill in nearby Cohoes. He came to Albany 15 months ago, the doctor added, and had been using his first name.

Wright has a wife and child in Alabama, and has been trying unsuccessfully to arrange through parole authorities to have his family join him here, the doctor said.

Testimony in Gazette Trial Continues

Little Rock, July 12 — (AP) — Striking circulation employees of the Arkansas Gazette today continued their testimony before a national labor relations board trial examining charges of unfair labor practices against the paper.

Four former circulation district managers took the stand yesterday the third day of the hearing.

One, W. L. Rosamond, testified he called Publisher Hugh B. Patterson, Jr. a "damn fool" after a circulation department employee tried to persuade fellow workers not to join a union.

Rosamond, who now lives in Natchez, Miss., testified that he told assistant city circulation manager J. O. Turner "to go to tell Mr. Patterson that he's a damn fool to send him (Turner) out here to talk against a union."

Rosamond added that he later repeated the statement to Patterson in person.

Rosamond said that he accused Turner of being sent by management, but that Turner said he "had taken it on himself" to talk against the union.

Later, said Rosamond, he overheard Turner tell another district circulation manager that he expected to get a salary increase out of his antiunion stand.

The NLRB charges Turner was a supervisor and spoke for the Gazette; the newspaper contends his duties were similar to those of the striking district managers and that he had no authority to speak for the paper.

The three other strikers, who testified yesterday are: Ruel E. Bradshaw, Lavon Roetzel and Delbert L. Croft.

EARL DIES

Car Burns, 4 Members of Family Die

Bridgeport, N. J., July 12 — (AP) — Four members of a Rhode Island family, two of them small children, burned to death last night in their car, which had been damaged by a truck and set afire by explosion of a gasoline tank.

A 15-year-old girl, fifth passenger in the automobile, was thrown clear of the blazing wreckage, but suffered serious burns. The crash occurred at the entrance to the Bridgeport-Chester, Pa., ferry. Flames shooting upward 30 feet as a spare gasoline tank on the big tractor-trailer exploded, trapping the four victims.

In Underwood hospital, Woodbury, N. J., June McFriede, of Hopkinton, Mass., told authorities those killed were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Karch and their daughters, Deborah, 5, and Susan, 3, of East Greenwich, R. I.

She said the Karches had been visiting their parents in Massachusetts and were taking her to aunt in Annapolis, Md.

The truck, owned by the Kent transfer company, Elkton, Md.,

Extortionists Fail in Attempt

San Francisco, July 12 — (AP) — Postal inspectors report the writers of an anonymous $3,000 extortion demand upon Mrs. Margaret C. Ryan failed to show for a dummy package.

The wealthy former New York socialite is charged with manslaughter of Leonard D. Ray Jr., 22. She said she shot him as he trespassed on her San Louis Obispo ranch. She pleaded self defense.

Postal Inspector Earle D. Chance said yesterday Mrs. Ryan wealthy widow, received a letter from Oakland, Calif., saying certain people had information that would prove her story false.

She was asked to leave $5,000 in a coffee can at a lonely spot the night of June 30.

Chance said a packet of paper wrapped with real bills, was left at the appointed spot. No one showed up.

Says Labor Won't Submit to Controls

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — AFL President William Green told Democratic congressional leaders today that labor unions "will not and cannot" submit to wage controls without effective price control.

Green attended a Capitol Hill conference of house members backing the Truman administration's request for strong anti-inflation controls.

James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, said the "whole labor movement" was behind Green's declaration.

"If an unworkable controls bill is made law labor will not support wage controls," Carey said.

The session was in the nature of a strategy meeting on how to save the administration's wage-price controls program from threatened total defeat.

Also sitting in was Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Green, Carey, Wilson and T. V. Anderson, chairman of the Railway Union Executives association, all pleaded for a strong controls program.

Green told newsmen afterwards he had stressed that the nation is "facing a great emergency filled with uncertainty, and that it was up to congress to pass a 'reasonable' controls bill."

"Labor agreed to wage controls and is submitting to them nobody Green said, "but we cannot continue if congress refuses to pass a defense production act which does not give the government authority to exercise price controls in a reasonable and adequate manner."

Today's session was the second labor union leaders have had with congress members backing strong anti-inflation controls.

For the moment, Mr. Truman's lieutenants in the house were playing for time in the hope an aroused public opinion would swing some votes to their side in the controversy over controls.

They admitted it was a long-shot gamble. Congressional anti-inflation barometer of grass roots feeling — has failed to date to reflect any groundswell of popular support for continued controls.

With a legislative slow-down already in evidence, Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts announced publicly late yesterday that house debate on controls would continue into next week.

Leaders have been saying privately that — with an anti-controls coalition in the saddle — it may be another full week yet before they are ready to risk a final conclusive vote. The senate has voted an eight-month extension of economic controls which is far short of what Mr. Truman asked of yesterday's session, the house engaged in a sectional squabble over granting the President authority to disperse new government-financed war plants for security purposes. Administration leaders made only half-hearted attempts to curb the oratory.

After nearly four hours of debate, the house voted 134 to 79 to kill the dispersal plan.

Eastern seaboard members of both parties, fearful of losing their industry to the South and West voted solidly against it. McCormack was among them.

The house raised no objection to the provisions offered as part of the administration bill.

Emmet Christian Service Society Meets

The Lady McSwain Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church in Emmet met in the home of Mrs. Paul Edwards, Mrs. Sydney Allen associate hostess. The Edwards home was lovely with late summer flowers.

Mrs. Alfred Hickey, leader, opened the meeting with the members singing "Wonderful Words of Life." She gave the 26th chapter of Matthew, verses 33-36 as the devotional reading. The subject for the program was "Our Healing Mission in the Philippines."

Mrs. Scott Ross, Mrs. Carl Weeks and Mrs. Shelby Jones presented a playlet, "Variations in the Philippines," assisted by Mrs. Hickey.

A brief business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ramsey Garland. The matter of instructing Mrs. Rushing to invite the Seminar which meets in Sept. to the local church was discussed. It was decided by vote that we would not invite them.

Mrs. Meredith Crumby presented her project, making a friendship apron each member pays her a quarter to have their name put on the apron, she gives the society the quarters, she keeps the apron. This suggestion was enthusiastically endorsed.

The meeting was adjourned with the rendition of the society's watchword.

The hostesses served a delicious salad plate with iced tea to the sixteen members and one guest present.

Wants Name of Dawson on RFC Report

Washington, July 12 — (AP) — Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said today he would oppose leaving White House Aide Donald S. Dawson's name out of a final senate report on Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) loans.

He told reporters this in advance of a senate banking subcommittee meeting to discuss a report intended to mark the end of a probe begun a year ago last February into RFC lending practices.

Also up for consideration at the closed session was a special report by the Senate Finance Committee on RFC loans to the Kaiser-Frazer Corp., automobile manufacturers.

In an interim report last February Dawson was linked by the subcommittee with a "web of influence" which it charged exerted improper influence on some of the directors of the huge government lending agency.

President Truman retorted that the report was untrue, touching off a whole new round of hearings by the senate investigators.

After first turning down invitations to testify, Dawson went before the committee and denounced its statements about him as "absolutely untrue." The President's personal adviser and a former personnel officer of the RFC, Dawson said he never had attempted to dominate or influence any RFC director.

Persons familiar with the proposed draft of the subcommittee's final report, unwilling to be quoted by name, said that in its present form it makes no mention of Dawson at all.

Bricker said in advance of today's session he had not seen it but felt that it should include references to Dawson's testimony and other testimony in which Dawson's name figured.

Ten per cent of all drivers involved in automobile accidents in 1940 were women.

WILD WEST CHARITY STANDISH BY CHARLES JUDAH

Continued From Page Six

CHARITY looked at him. "I don't know what happened; but I know you're smart of a girl to know when she's been jilted."

Douglas Kent shook his head solemnly. "Mustn't say that. Mustn't think it."

"What am I to think?"

"That I love you."

"I suppose that's why you don't want to marry me."

"Do you want to marry me, but you'd never be happy—gambler's wife—now I'm not even a gambler—just a peon—Angel's peon—she said so herself—wouldn't want to marry Angel's peon, would you?"

It was his last effort. He slumped to the floor. Charity looked down at him. He was not handsome now, nor well groomed, nor gay. His brown hair was unkempt, his skin was gray, unhealthy circles underlined his eyes, an outflung hand was grimy from the dice table.

He had admitted he was Angel's peon. She supposed that was the Spanish way of saying a man was infatuated with a woman, her slave. Charity looked at the packed trunk. The train left a little past midnight. There was still time.

But there was no time. Perhaps there would never be time for Charity to catch a train bound back to Ohio. It was past midnight and she was still sitting at a table in Duke Rogers' place, talking to Angel, the angel who drove men crazy and who, according to his own confession, owned Douglas Kent.

Charity, without pausing to think, had instinctively pictured Angel as large and curved and plump, with yellow hair, skin too smooth and too white, and a china doll's blue eyes. She was none of these things. Her name was Angeles Cortez. Her skin was warm olive, her eyes were large and blacker than Charity's own, her straight hair gleamed with dark lights. She had moved to meet Charity with the lithe natural grace that is the heritage of those people whose forebears had lived on Mediterranean shores. Her voice was liquid; she spoke with only a faint trace of accent, which she manipulated with studied effect. Only her mouth, with its red lips stretched too thinly over sharp white teeth, betrayed her. A small mouth, it gave little promise of a generous flowering. However, Charity, doubting if a man would be as critical as she, grudgingly admitted that though Angel might be a dark angel, she was beautiful. She was self-possessed, too.

"You have misunderstood. Miss Standish, Douglas is not as you think him. He is not a peon, yes. It was only a little joke. Of course he is not. Peons are bound by cruel laws; Douglas is only bound to me by what he so beautifully calls a debt of honor."

"You mean he owes you money?"

"Five thousand dollars."

CHARITY gasped in dismay, and rallied weakly. "I don't believe it."

Angel's lips parted in their thin, cruel smile. "You call me a liar? If I were a man, we would fight about that. Men are fools. Did you not tell me that Douglas, himself, admitted that he is my peon?"

"Yes, I'm sorry I said I didn't believe you. But $5,000! What could he have done with so much?"

Angel's story was straightforward and it agreed with Douglas's own confession. "I suppose it will take a long time to pay," Charity said unhappily.

"A long time, yes. I cannot afford high wages, and, of course, he cannot credit quite all of the little he will receive against what he owes me. Some he must keep for food, clothes and, since I cannot be cruel to our poor Douglas, a little fun."

A tall man Charity hadn't noticed moved up behind Charity. "Did I hear you say Doug was drinking?" he asked Angel.

Kentuckians to Defend Reputation

Louisville, Ky., July 10 (AP)—A delegation of Kentuckians, headed by the governor, takes off for Ohio today to defend their reputation in the bluegrass field.

Author-farmer Louis Bromfield of Mansfield, O., not only starred a fine Kentucky product but the origin of the commonwealth's nickname as well when he declared last March:

"We look on bluegrass as a vicious weed and spend a great deal of time eliminating it."

The fold of "the Bluegrass state," just about as proud of their horses, beautiful women, tobacco and bourbon, raised a clamor of protest. Said the Louisville Courier-Journal:

"Blue grass, like horses, bourbon and most people, loses something when transplanted to Ohio. There it is probably, as Mr. Bromfield complains, just a weed. Let Ohio keep Mr. Bromfield. We'll keep the bluegrass."

Bromfield then suggested that he and the Kentuckians compare grasses and talk things over. He invited them to Malabar, his 1,000-acre farm. And the Kentuckians, despite his bluegrass views, respect his fine type of grassland farming.

So that's why two airlines and several private planes load with some 75 Kentuckians today for a trip to Malabar.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby and his delegation, always eager for a social get-together with neighbors, also took along a case of bourbon and a good old Kentucky ham—wrapped in bluegrass, incidentally.

Bluegrass, despite Bromfield's low opinion, has contributed much to Kentucky. It helps provide the green carpet for those tentily-rolling acres bordered by white fences on Kentucky's expansive horse farms.

And Kentucky's bluegrass seed production is expected to approach 300,000 bushels this year despite adverse weather. Yet it doesn't supply nearly all the demand, other states helping; Missouri, for instance, out-doing Kentucky in seed production.

The delegation includes Kentucky's agriculture commissioner, Ben Adams; Jack Matlick, editor of the Kentucky Farmer magazine; Bill Tate, president of the Louisville agriculture club, and leading farmers.

Gov. Wetherby naturally considers bluegrass "great" and adds that Kentucky is making "tremendous progress" in improving its pastures.

Matlick, the arrangements committee chairman, doesn't share Bromfield's opinion of bluegrass, of course. But he said the author-farmer "had something" in his pasture program. And, seriously, the Kentuckians went to see how

Miss Lee Is Trying to Help Stage

By BOB THMAS
Hollywood Jul 9 (AP)—Everybody talks about the state of the stage, but nobody ever does anything about it.

Nobody, except a few tireless people like Ann Lee.

Miss Lee is a tall, beautiful and capable blond of 30 years. She is an accomplished actress having played three years with Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady in the Dark" and another three with the Lunts in "Mistress Mine." Like many Broadway players, she spent her summers in the sticks, playing the summer theaters.

The salaries are less than on Broadway but enough to live on.

Three years ago, Miss Lee took a departure from the usual summer theater circuit in the east. She went to Santa Fe, N. M., a theater-starved town. By whatever means possible (and there were many) she raised enough money to build a 250-seat theater. For the first season she imported a group of players directly from New York.

"We were an immediate success," she told me. "Santa Fe is a wonderful town for theater; there are a great many artists and writers who live in the vicinity and are eager to see good plays. We drew from other areas, too."

"When we opened up I told my business manager that I expected a lot of customers from Amarillo, Tex., which is my home town. He scoffed and said we'd be lucky to do it, for agriculture authorities recommend other grasses ahead of bluegrass for building up poor land. Bluegrass, however, is superb for lawn and in mixture with other grasses, added Matlick.

But a "noxious weed?"

Well, the smiling governor has his answer. Wetherby said they have a bag of "genuine Kentucky bluegrass seed" to give Bromfield.

The U. S. cotton textile industry is surpassed only by that of the United Kingdom.

The principal oil region of the far East lies in the shallow basin between the Asia mainland and Australia.

Among the players who have worked for Miss Lee: Cesar Romero, Diana Lynn, Mickey Rooney, William Bendix, Guy Madison, Zasu Pitts, Kirk Douglas played in "Detective Story," as preparation for doing the film version. Miss Lee said most movie people have been cooperative.

Now that her two theaters are well under way, Miss Lee is tending to her own career. She is playing her first film role, in "Boots Malone" with William Holden.

"It has been a financial sacrifice for me but it was worth it," she said. "There's no reason why others can't put forth the effort to bring live theater to other parts of the nation."

Gen. Morris,
McAlister
to Speak

The program for the dedication of the local National Guard armory this Friday night, July 13, will be a double-barreled affair—with a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored buffet supper in the drill hall at 8:30, followed by the public ceremony at 8, also in the drill hall.

The 8 o'clock program will feature speeches by the top-ranking commanders of the Arkansas National Guard, headed by Brig. Gen. John B. Morris, Jr., state adjutant general, Little Rock.

Mayor Lyle Brown will be master of ceremonies. He will introduce Brig. Gen. H. L. McAlister of Conway, supervisor of the building program for the Arkansas National Guard, who, as a member of the military staff of Governor Sid McMath, directed the planning and construction of Company A's new home in Hope.

Gen. McAlister will give the history of the building, and introduce the guests.

The principal speaker will be Gen. Morris, who is to present the building's keys to Capt. John A. Rust, commander of Company A, and appoint him custodian. At this time Gen. Morris will deliver the dedication address.

In closing the program, Mayor Brown will officially accept the building in behalf of the City of Hope.

At the earlier event, the buffet supper at 8:30, President Mike Kelly of Hope Chamber of Commerce will welcome the distinguished guests and act as host.

Education, which is reportedly universal and compulsory in Russia, begins at the age of seven.

Agriculture is the basic industry in Yugoslavia. It took thirteen years to build the Suez Canal.

Hope and Hempstead county will realize a generation-long ambition this Friday night, July 13, when they dedicate the new National Guard armory on courthouse square — the first time Company A of the 153d Infantry has ever had a state-owned headquarters.

Long years of agitation and work finally obtained authorization for the local project, and it was begun in March, 1950, and finished this past March. It is a fine large building of buff brick, steel and concrete, measuring 116 by 80 feet, and with a steel truss roof which permits a drill hall free of all pillars and obstructions.

The armory cost $75,000. It was designed by Architects Bruggman, Swain & Allen of Little Rock, and was built under contract by Wilson Construction company, also of Little Rock. Wiring was by Houston Electric company, and plumbing by Harry W. Shiver, both of Hope.

The new building fronts on West Fourth street, with the east wall facing the rear of the Hempstead county courthouse. And its immediate neighbor on the west is the $33,000 National Guard motor vehicle storage building—which, however, was an entirely separate project.

Facts About Armory
Here are the detailed facts about the new armory:

Outside dimensions 116 feet by 80; and height 33 feet.

Exterior is of buff brick, with green interior walls, and birch doors throughout.

The main drill hall is 76 by 76 feet, and other rooms are proportionately spacious. There is a supply room 23 by 40; two offices measuring 16 by 14 each; a downstairs classroom 23 by 22; one upstairs 38 by 22; and an upstairs locker room 38 by 33 feet.

In addition, 235 square feet of space have been provided for the storage of training aids.

And there are 345 square feet in the shower and drying room.

The shower room is finished in yellow glazed tile, while classrooms and offices are painted mist green, with eye-rest green trim.

The armory has 62 overhead lights, 53 switches, and 23 double wall-plugs.

And to complete this military establishment there is a brand new flagpole, 32 feet high.

This is the new home of Company A, 153d Infantry, Arkansas National Guard. The boys drill every Tuesday night. They used to have first one drill hall and then another, as

Congress Is Stuck in a Lot of Talk

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 11 —(AP)— Talk is like flypaper. You can get stuck in it.

If you're stuck, after two weeks of steady talk in congress about controls, here's an explanation.

Last fall congress passed the defense production act (DPA), giving the government power to and so on.

control prices, wages, materials. That was after the Korean war started, when we were beginning the defense program, and it was pretty sure prices would go up and wages too.

Congress said the DPA — and all the controls—would end June 30 1951 unless congress decided to continue it.

In April, with war in Korea continuing, President Truman asked years beyond June 30 and add even stronger controls.

It wasn't until the end of June that congress got around to voting on whether to keep DPA two years more, or one year, or not at all and by then two very influential things had happened:

1. Various special groups which had been hit by controls, particularly price controls, began to pressure congress for relief.

Still, unless both houses acted DPA would automatically die altogether on June 30. There was only one thing that could keep it alive: some kind of emergency, stop-gap measure.

So both houses agreed —this had nothing to do with the eight-month extension plan voted by the senate—to keep DPA alive 31 days beyond June 30.

This gave the house time to vote on a full bill similar to the eight-month bill of the senate.

The house has been voting on such a bill this week. It may not finish up for several more days. At this point it's not known whether the house will vote to keep DPA going for six months, eight months, or a year.

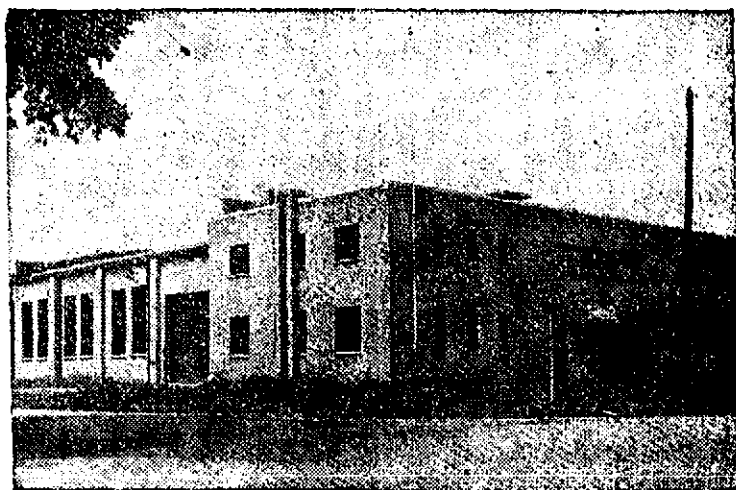

But the house and senate bills will not be the same. This means we won't know the final answer until members of both houses then get together and agree on a simple bill.

It probably will be the end of July before the whole business is finished. This much seems sure: The house and senate will approve the old DPA.

For instance, the senate bill drastically limits the government's authority to roll back prices. Yet rollbacks was one of the cornerstones in the hopes of OPS—office of price stabilization—to cut down living costs.

The U. S. S. R. is an extensive fur producer and its rivers and sea are abundantly stocked with all types of fish.

The power capacity of rivers in the U. S. S. R. is estimated to equal slightly less than one-third of the potential water power capacity of the world.

Here Are Officers and Men of the National Guard

Guard Offers Much to a Young Man

The National Guard offers the young man of our generation an opportunity whereby he may equip himself with the knowledge and experience necessary for becoming a first class soldier.

He not only receives training which will benefit him for his military duties but he will find that training to the Guard will help to form his character and personality into mature manhood.

There is no secret that the young man of our time is facing an uncertain period of military service. It is a matter of record that National Guard troops receive more training than troops called into service by the draft because of the voluntary nature of the organization. The National Guard soldier receives most of his basic training while he is still a civilian and then if his unit is called into federal service he will undergo, in addition, the normal basic training period.

There are many factors which the young man of today should consider about the National Guard. The privilege of being paid regularly while training at home, rapid advancement to higher grades, retirement benefits, and having the assurance that he will remain with his home town buddies, in the event of mobilization. If a man who is about to become of draft age joins the Guard he will be immune from the draft and will not be called unless his National Guard unit is mobilized.

The advantages of joining the National Guard will be summed up in our slogan: "What you learn today, may save your life tomorrow." Company A, 153d Infantry, was

Chandler Wants Back in Baseball

Detroit, July 11 — (AP) — Outgoing Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said today he would welcome an opportunity to get back into baseball but denied a report he would replace Billy Evans as general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Chandler, whose resignation becomes effective Sunday, performed his last major official act yesterday when he presided over the 14th annual all-star game.

The former Kentucky senator outwardly appeared his old smiling jovial self as he visited each dugout bidding goodbye to the all-star players, managers and coaches of the National and American leagues. But to close friends he made no effort to hide his true feelings.

"I don't remember when I've felt as I do now," he confided. "Why should they have done this to me? What reasons did they have? They still haven't told me."

Deep in the dugout, hidden from the players and the vast crowd that jam-packed Briggs stadium, the spurned commissioner, for the first time since his repudiation, wept unashamedly.

organized and extended federal recognition in the National Guard Bureau on March 3, 1947. It first held weekly drills at a rented building downtown. From there it moved to the former Southwestern Proving Ground, until a motor storage building was erected.

The unit held drills in the motor storage building for 18 months, and moved into the new armory on March 13, 1951.

On a recent armory inspection Col. Homer P. Dittmore, Inspector General, Fourth Army, in his report congratulated the City of Hope and the State of Arkansas for this unit having its complete allotment of armory facilities.

Cab Owner Forced to Take Water

Holyoke, Mass., July 10 — (AP) —

George Hamel, owner of a taxi-cab company, paced this advertisement recently in the Holyoke Transcript:

"Just tell us where you are and where you want to go and we'll provide cab service."

He got a request for a cab yesterday and had to turn down the job.

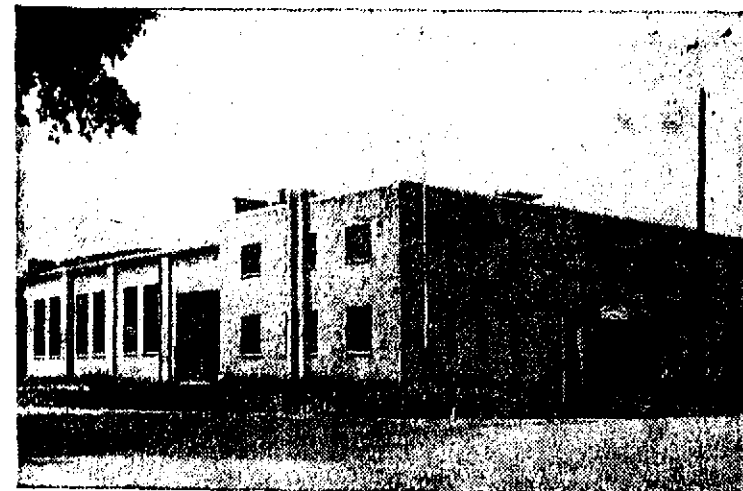

The request came in a letter which said:

"We're about 10 miles beyond the 38th parallel. Take the main supply road, turn at the first right and we're in the first foxhole in a rice paddy without water. We'd like a cab immediately."

The letter was signed by 22 soldiers in Korea.

Wheat and rice are commonly known as the "bread grains".

Overlooking Facts Is a Question

By HARRY FERGUSON
U. S. Foreign News Editor

If and when a cease-fire is proclaimed in Korea, the big question will be: Who won the war? Moscow has answered that question in advance. The Communists won it and we lost it. The North Koreans and the Chinese Reds concur in Moscow's opinion. It is safe to predict that no matter what happens from now on nothing is going to change their opinion.

Even before the United Nations and Communist negotiators met for their first cease-fire talks, the Communist propaganda drums began to throb. An unidentified reporter in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang wrote a story explaining all about it. He sent it to Moscow where all the newspapers published it.

Because of their high energy concentration per unit of weight, fats satisfy hunger longer than do many other foods.

Duff to Visit Ike in Europe, Talk Politics

Washington, July 10 — (AP) — Senator Duff (R-Pa.) is thinking about going to Europe late this summer and if he does may call on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Some politicians think the Pennsylvania senator might seek some information on the availability of the five-star general for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Except to confirm he may go to Europe and may see Eisenhower, Duff declined comment on his plans.

Thus far Duff has contended he doesn't know whether Eisenhower would run if he were asked. But the Pennsylvania, an Eisenhower backer, doesn't seem to be worried on that score.

Of possibly greater present worry to Duff is what might happen in the jockeying for control of the 73-vote Pennsylvania delegation at next year's party nominating convention in Chicago.

As the man who led the GOP "old guard" for the senate nomination in his state's primary in 1950, Duff was regarded for a time as having the Pennsylvania delegation practically in his pocket.

Politicians here have heard recently, however, that the forces of former U. S. Senator Joseph Grundy are trying for a comeback in which they hope at least to split the delegation.

Grundy, traditional GOP organization leader in the state, backed Duff when the latter won the governorship in 1944, but opposed him when Duff ran for the senate last year.

Some of Duff's friends apparently think the Grundy forces might take a flyer on former Gov. Howard E. Stassen of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Stassen himself lent some color to this rumor with a recent statement. He said a decision he will make later in the year about whether to seek the 1952 Republican presidential nomination will be influenced by what the people of Minnesota and Pennsylvania want him to do.

Stassen has aligned with the Grundy forces in the hot 1950 senatorial primary. Jay Cooke, a Philadelphia banker, was the defeated Grundy candidate.

Duff has made it clear Stassen doesn't appeal to him, although they both are listed among the party's "internationalists."

Friends of Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who is in the nomination race in every way except by public announcement, obviously hope part of the Pennsylvania delegation will go to him if there is a split.

Taft is keeping out of the backstage battle, at least until the situation shows more signs of jelling.

'Voice' Hits Czech Jailing of Oatis

Washington, July 10 — (AP) — The government's "Voice of America" is saying in current broadcasts that "a decent world will not let forever go unpunished" Czechoslovakia's jailing of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis.

The "Voice" state department radio which tries to tell the U. S. story to the rest of the world and particularly behind the Iron Curtain, called the jailing of Oatis "an awful crime" perpetrated by "Czech stooges of the Kremlin." It termed the correspondent a "martyr" to freedom of the press.

Oatis is the 37-year-old American newspaperman convicted by a Czech court last week of espionage and sentenced to ten years in jail, with a promise of five years off for good behavior.

The "Voice" broadcast asserted he was guilty only of "objective newspaper reporting" and said his trial and conviction were ordered by "state secret" decrees from Moscow aimed at concealing any information not officially cleared by Communist censors.

Two senators also protested against Czechoslovakia's action, as Oatis had already done.

Senator Frank (D-De) said in a statement that "members of the free press everywhere share the indignation of the American people over the shameful trumped-up charges against Mr. Oatis, because there is no semblance of truth in the whole proceeding."

SPACIOUS DRILL HALL

The drill hall of the new National Guard armory measures 76 by 76 feet, its trussed roof eliminating all posts and permitting full maneuvers by Company A on its Tuesday night drill meetings.

Prospects Slim on Tax Hike Action

Washington, July 10 — (AP) — Prospects for quick senate action on the biggest tax hike bill in the nation's history today appeared slim.

The $7,200,000,000 revenue-increasing measure passed by the house has hit so many tender spots that the senate finance committee is flooded with requests for time by witnesses of all sorts. Hearings continued today.

Senator Williams (R-Del.), a committee member, told a reporter he did not see how the group could possibly get its version of the bill to the floor before September.

This undoubtedly would mean the measure could not become law before October or November, Williams said.

Even after the senate passes its bill, a long, tough conference with the house is expected if the senate makes as many changes as the finance committee members have forecast.

A Democratic senator who declined use of his name told news-men he doubts any tax bill will be approved finally by congress until fall.

This senator noted that a conference of Democratic senators voted last month to put the revenue measure on its "must" list before congress takes any vacation, on the condition that decision might be reversed.

President Truman, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and other administration officials have been prodding congress to act swiftly on the bill.

They want the house figures increased so that the new rates will raise $10,000,000,000 more a year. And they want to collect a high percentage of that amount in the current fiscal year which started July 1.
